The vocabulary of the ancient sages of Egypt was about 685 words. A well-educated person seldom uses more than 3,000 or 4,000 in actual conversation. Accurate thinkers and close reasoners employ a larger stock, and eloquent speakers may rise to a command of 10,000. Shakspeare produced all his plays with about 15,000. Milton's works are built up with 8,000, yet, with all these, there is not enough to accurately describe the superiority and general excellence of the world-renowned Carboline, which is an elegant dressing, removes dandruff, cleans the scaip, prevents the hair from falling out, restores the hair on bald heads, restores it to its original color, makes it grow rapidly, will not stain the skin, contains not a particle of lead, silver, sulphur, or other deleterious drugs. They correct dis-eased action in the several assimilative organs of the body, and are so composed that obstructions within their range can rarely withstand or evade them. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every-body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are, at the same time, the safest and best physic for children. By their aperient action they gripe much less than the common purgatives, and never give pain when the bowels are not inflamed. They reach the vital fountains of the blood, and strengthen the system by freeing it from the elements of weakness. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates, containing neither calomel nor any deleterious drug, these Pills may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar-coating pre-serves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take; while being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

The maidens of the famous Seneca tribe of Indians who once roamed over the picturesque and beautiful valleys and lofty hills of the upper Allegheny river (now the famous oil regions of Pennsylvania), were noted among all the neighboring tribes for the wealth and beauty of their tresses, which were of remarkable length and exquisite fineness of texture, and in color so black, that the simile of the raven's wing was hardly a just comparison; an elegant was hardly a just comparison; an elegant background that brought out the olive brown complexion of the maidens, and formed an exquisite and charming picture of savage female loveliness delightful to be-hold. Why their hair was of such rare beauty and of such extreme length was a deep, puzzling mystery to the maidens of all the neighboring tribes, and was a source of continual jealousies on their part. It has long remained a mystery, and would no doubt have died away altogether with the rest of the Indian traditions had not the discovery of petroleum oil furnished the cue, and mankind now possesses the great secret which had remained sealed within the Third Sand rock of oblivion, until released by the hand of scientific industry, it gushes forth in treasures of petroleum to the world. But the knowledge was practically useless to the prematurely bald beauty and of such extreme length was a practically useless to the prematurely bald and gray, as no one in civilized society could tolerate the use of refined petroleum as a dressing for the hair. But the skill of one of our chemists has overcome the difficulty, and, by a process known only to himself, he has, after very elaborate and costly experiments, succeeded in deodorizing petroleum, which rend—— it susceptible of being handled as daintily as the famous eau de cologne. The experiments with the deodorized liquid on the human hair were deodorized liquid on the human hair were attended with the most astonishing results. A few applications, where the hair was thin and falling, gave remarkable tone and vigor to the scalp and hair. Every particle of dandruff disappears on the first or second dressing, and the liquid, so searching in its nature of the protest to the roots at once ture seems to penetrate to the roots at once, and set up a radical change from the start.
